

From now on, ~~junior~~ doctors will be known as resident doctors.

Why?

There's nothing junior about prescribing life saving medication

There's nothing junior about fixing a hole in a heart

There's nothing junior about repairing a broken bone

There's nothing junior about resident doctors.

There aren't many jobs where being a junior involves saving lives.

30% of all doctors in England are classified as 'junior doctors', and they're anything but.

From now on, they will be known as resident doctors.

So next time you're treated by a resident doctor, rest assured there's nothing 'junior' about them.

There's nothing ~~junior~~ about junior resident doctors.

Why?

Because there's nothing junior about prescribing life saving medication

Why?

There's nothing junior about fixing a hole in a heart

Why?

There's nothing junior about repairing a broken bone

From now on, junior doctors will be known as resident doctors.

There aren't many jobs where being a junior involves
saving lives.

30% of all doctors in England are classified as 'junior doctors', and they're anything but.

From now on, they will be known as resident doctors.

So next time you're treated by a resident doctor, rest assured there's nothing 'junior' about them.

From now on,
~~junior~~ doctors will be known as resident doctors.

Why?

There's nothing junior about prescribing life saving medication

There's nothing junior about fixing a hole in a heart

There's nothing junior about repairing a broken bone

There's nothing junior about
resident doctors.

From now on, junior doctors will be known as resident doctors.

From now on, junior doctors will be known as resident doctors.

From now on, junior doctors will be known as resident doctors.

From now on, junior doctors will be known as resident doctors.

From now on, junior doctors will be known as resident doctors.

From now on, junior doctors will be known as resident doctors.

From now on, junior doctors will be known as resident doctors.

From now on, junior doctors will be known as resident doctors.

From now on, junior doctors will be known as resident doctors.

From now on, junior doctors will be known as resident doctors.

From now on, junior doctors will be known as resident doctors.

From now on, junior doctors will be known as resident doctors.

